SOS

"Hello...Do you remember me? I am your customer that needs to place an order and I need it now...!! The order should have been placed 2 weeks ago; and now I am out of product ". IPSCO has it's S.O.S. or (Service on Screams) program just for situations like this. How it works is: You tell us when you need product on your dock and this is when we take over. IPSCO will put a team into action to get the job done in whatever time is needed. We all know that service is important and taking care of customers is our first priority.

Always remember...

When you need it in a pinch, resolving it is a cinch.
Just call us and say SOS because that's our NICHE!
